DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Drawings

The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they include the following reference character(s) not mentioned in the description: 18. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d), or amendment to the specification to add the reference character(s) in the description in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(b) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3636

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148

USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted prior art (Figure 5) in view of Ney (#4,047,756).

The admitted prior art shows a seat structure comprising a seat frame (50), a three-dimensional net (52) stretched over the seat frame (50), and a skin material (54). However, the admitted prior art does not show the use of a fastener for connecting a portion of the skin material with the three-dimensional net.

Ney teaches a seat cover having a back portion (15) fastened to a side portion (17) by a slide fastener chain (16) in order to allow the cover to fit snugly into position over the chair portions. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use Ney's slide chain fastener to connect a portion of the skin material with the three-dimensional net of the admitted prior art's invention, in order to provide a means to adjustably allow the three-dimensional net and skin material to fit snugly over the seat frame.

Art Unit: 3636

With claim 3, the portion of the skin material is a portion that the back of an occupant is brought into contact.

Claims 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the admitted prior art (Figure 5) and Ney (#4,047,756) as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Hendrickson (#3,220,767).

The admitted prior art discloses the claimed invention except for using a cushioning material with the three-dimensional net and the skin material. Hendrickson teaches a chair comprising the use of cushioning material (40) for use inside the seat cover (16), in order to provide a friction or resistance element to prevent sliding of the cushion of the seat. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the time the invention was made to employ Hendrickson's cushioning material (40) between the three-dimensional net and the skin material of the admitted prior art's invention, in order to provide a friction or resistance element to prevent sliding of the person's back on the seat frame.

With claim 4, the portion of the skin material is a portion that the back of an occupant is brought into contact.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Venuto et al, Fujita et al, Tanaka et al, Penley et al, Homler, Selbert, and Picard are cited as showing similar types of seat structure.
